Observations

The risk landscape in Surrey is characterised by a consistent level of threat across a diverse range of categories, with all top 10 risks rated at a likelihood score of 7.0 out of 10. These scores reflect an objective assessment based on multiple data inputs, including demographic and environmental factors, rather than direct incident counts. The uniformity of these scores suggests a stable risk environment without significant fluctuations in the probability of these risks occurring over the past month.~~Among the highest-ranked risks are 'Theft - Self Service Theft' and 'Theft - From Service Desk', occupying the first and second positions respectively. These theft-related risks indicate ongoing vulnerabilities in retail and service environments, possibly linked to Surrey's mix of urban and suburban commercial areas. Public order risks such as 'Drug Usage' and 'Protest' also feature prominently, highlighting potential challenges related to community safety and social tensions. The presence of 'Trespassing - Encampment' and 'Asset Crime - Criminal Damage' further underscores issues around property security and unauthorised occupation.~~Risks involving direct harm to individuals, including 'Burglary & Robbery - ATM Rip Out', 'Unarmed Robbery', and 'Violence & Abuse - Hate Crime', are ranked lower but remain significant with a risk score of 7.0. The steady trend across all risks, with no upward or downward movement since last month, suggests that while these threats are persistent, there have been no recent changes in their likelihood. This stability may reflect effective ongoing management of these risks or a lack of emerging factors that would alter the threat profile. The consistent risk scores emphasise the need for continued vigilance across a broad spectrum of public safety concerns in Surrey.
